

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides at least one nozzle that sprays a rotating workpiece with an etchant at an edge thereof. The at least one nozzle is located in an upper chamber of a 5 vertically configured processing subsystem that also includes mechanisms for plating, cleaning and drying in upper and lower chambers